

UNIQUE DYSLEXIC GET CREATIVE VISUAL ART WORKSHOP

When: 10.00am - 4.00pm, Saturday 26th July 2014

Where: Dreel Halls Anstruther

This event is being organised by Dyslexia Pathways CIC

Are you dyslexic or think you are dyslexic? Aged 16 or over and live central Scotland?

It is well known that many dyslexics are also creative individuals. If you would like to find out more about being creative then the Unique Dyslexic Get Creative is for you. Come along to the free workshop where you will have the opportunity to have fun with music. The venue is easily accessible by public transport and a disability friendly venue. Lunch will be provided and is free of charge. Travel expenses will also be paid. If you have caring responsibilities, some help with the cost of this is available also.

"Come and unleash your creative self! We will explore spontaneous sculpture making with objects and unusual materials, image making with lighting effects/ backdrops and create a final digital art print.

Please bring a few materials or random objects if you wish. You do not need any previous experience - as we are all artists really."

Artist and Facilitator: Gail McLintock (BA Hons), works across art forms and specialises in 'group production of art' and creative training for empowerment.

If you are interested in attending this workshop, please contact Steve McCue on 01592 756187 or email: steve_mccue@hotmail.com.

Places are limited so please book now. You are invited to join the Unique Dyslexic Get Creative Facebook group at:

<http://www.facebook.com/groups/unique.dyslexic/>.

Or the Unique Dyslexic Get Creative web site at:

<http://www.uniquedyslexic.com/>

Free dyslexia screening is available to anyone attending the workshop.

Unique Dyslexic Get Creative is a Dyslexia Pathways CIC Project.